

TechTip #20 - Getting Java Plug-in (Online Testing)

The SkillCheck Online Testing Service may include some content which requires the end user to have the Java installed (distributed by Sun Microsystems).

To get this free download, go to the following site;

<http://www.java.com/en/download/index.jsp>

The screenshot shows a Mozilla Firefox browser window with the address bar displaying 'http://www.java.com/en/download/index.jsp'. The page content is primarily red and white. At the top left is the Java logo. To its right is a search bar. Below the logo are navigation links: 'Java in Action', 'Downloads', and 'Help Center'. On the left side, there are two sidebar sections: 'Attention PC OEMs' and 'All Java Downloads'. The main content area features the heading 'Free Java Download' followed by the text 'Download Java for your desktop computer now!'. Below this is 'Version 6 Update 21' and a large red button labeled 'Free Java Download'. Underneath the button are three links: '> What is Java?', '> Do I have Java?', and '> Need Help?'. Further down, there is a section titled 'Why download Java?' with several paragraphs of text explaining the benefits of Java. At the bottom of the page, there is a footer with various links like 'Select Language', 'About Java', 'Partner with Us', 'Developers', 'Privacy', 'Terms of Use', 'Trademarks', 'Disclaimer', and 'Support', along with the Oracle logo.

Please note, we do not provide technical support for this plug-in.